Investigation of the State Printing

A Committee to Investigate the Assembly's Permanent Pay Roll

[BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.] SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] The special committee investigating the temporary pay roll made fact that Duckworth had declared he would exhaust the contingent fund on attachés two years hence in return for the criticism of his appointments.

Warrants for the pay of attachés were produced, and though only about half of them were examined today, it was found that about half of this number had been cashed through brokers and "shavers," among whom were Hornlein Bros., saloon-keepers of this city; A. M. Austin, a Los Angeles broker now here; George Brand, who did a wholesale business in this regard; J. Hocking, the San Bernardino man in the sergeant-at-arms's room, and H. Friedman, Duckworth's brother's political partner

Bettman of San Francisco didn't know Collins and Sweeney, who are charged up against him, and Price said Staley had been given a place without his direct request.

Minute Clerk Wickham didn't know Bowen and Rodriguez, who had been put down as two of his assistants.

The biggest sensation of the day was the testimony of C. J. Parmenter of roll, who produced a power of attorney from A. Campbell, another alleged watchman, on the strength of which he Campbell's name was not on the tem anything to do with the warrant until both the chief clerk and his brother assured him Campbell's name would be placed on the roll. This was January 8, four days after the temporary roll expired. Emmons asked if Campbell wasn't the man for whom the Mileage Committee substituted the name of Williams, but Parmenter could not say. He never knew Campbell until Duckworth's brother introduced him.

Assistant Sergeant-at-arms Lamphrey told how some unknown man had placed in his hands a power of attorney for Miss Bertola, Past Grand President of the Native Daughters, whom he had only once seen, and then disappeared Lamphrey cashed the warrant and gave the money to Duckworth, who said he knew her.

Francisco Chinatown....Corrupt use of SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1. - [Spe money in Washington's Populist Leg-SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Opposition to the investigation of the State Printing Office collapsed today. Gov. Budd, having been made aware that he was doing bad politics, called off the Democrats, and left the Republicans to fight it out. The latter, headed by Leavitt, discovering, on their part, that they were playing into the enemy's hands by a factional squabble, retraced their steps as gracefully as possible. Bridgford (Dem.) of Colusa helped along the work by amending his resolution so that instead of a special committee, the Retrenchment Committee should take up the investigation. This resolution was adopted, and Melick's committee now has plain sailing, so far as the House is concerned.

The report of the Committee on Attachés, relative to the permanent roll, caused a good deal of flurry among Republicans prior to the opening of the session. SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Code Cimmissioner Daly is jubilant tonight over the fact that the Assembly Committee on Revision of Codes will report favorably his bills assessing national banks, banks and corporations. These three bills, which have been outlined in letters to The Times, he considers three of the strongest points of the commission's report, and favorable action thereon justifies the work of the commission. No amendments were made by the committee. Corporation interests will undoubtedly make a strong fight on the floor. Daly does not expect the Retrenchment Committee's report abolishing the commission to pass without a struggle.

It is almost certain that Judge Goff of West Virginia will not be in the Cabinet, and already there are indications that other Southern Republicans are to be pressed for recognition. It is not unlikely, however, that Maj. McKinley may deem it best to make up his body of official advisers without choosing one of them from the South if Judge Goff is unable to accept a portfolio. He may consider that due recognition can be given the South in other ways.

There is no probability that the appointment of any other Cabinet officers will be announced here before the 10th or 15th of this month, nor is it at all probable that the Cabinet will be completed before Washington's birthday.

OLYMPIA (Wash.,) Feb. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Rumors of the corrupt use of money in the Senatorial fight just ended have culminated in an investigation begun today by a special committee of the House, with Chairman Powell, Republican, at its head. From what evidence has already been re-ceived it is apparent that this Legislature, which is Populist, will go down to history as the most corrupt that ever sat in Washington. According to the testimony of Senator Squire, who was defeated for reflection, Representative Warner, a Democrat, offered to deliver to him twenty-four votes in a combina tion for $1000, and $5000 more co on Squire's election. Plummer demanded $500 as the price of his vote and his influence in the cam-paign. Both offers were declined and Warner and Plummer were afterward found to be Turner men. Turner is a wealthy mine owner who has recently made a fortune. He has been a candi-date four times for Senator heretofore as a Republican, but this time he joined the Populist party and won out.

Senator Squire, on oath, testified as follows: "Warner told me one day in the lobby of the hotel that he wished to consult me. We went to my rooms. In the presence of Dr. Calhoun, my political manager, Warner offered to deliver twenty-four votes for money. Warner wanted $1000 to begin with. He said that a combination could be organized by which it was to be agreed that the majority should control. In order to make the action of the ma-jority binding on the others, he said it would be necessary to pay one or two members money, $400 or $500 each. He suggested that a contingent sum of $5000 be provided and paid in case of my election. Warner took a roll call of the Legislature and read off the names. the Legislature and read off the names, twenty-four in all, of the members who could be induced to go into the combi-nation. A Ballot on the Senatorship to Be

[BY ASSOCIATED PERSS WIRE.]

SALEM (Or.,) Feb. 1.—A ballot for United States Senator will be taken in the Benson House at noon tomorrow, and it is the purpose of the Mitchell management to force a vote in the Senate. As the time for a ballot has approached, the Mitchell men have renewed their campaign with extraordinary-vigor. It is said they have made special efforts to secure assistance from the Democrats. Rumors of a deal between the Mitchell men and Democrats have been rife all day. They are denied by the Democrats. It is now generally reported that it is the purpose of the Democrats to go into the joint convention Wednesday. The source of this assertion cannot be traced. When the motion is made tomorrow in the Senate to ballot, it is likely it will be ruled out of order by President Simon. It will be then necessary to appeal from the decision of the chair, and it will take a majority vote to overrule it. With all the Democrats voting with the Mitchell Senators, which is not likely, it is doubtful if a majority can be secured. The presence or absence of Brownell, a Mitchell man, may cut a great figure. Brownell has been absent from his seat since the opening week. No certain forecast of the probable action of the Senate can therefore be given.

The wilds of an African jungle could not be worse in which to pursue a man than that in which the robbers are hiding. The country is sparsely inhabited, and the few ranchers are not enly cowed into submission by the men suspected of committing this robbery, but are forced to afford them every possible protection in order to save their property as well as their lives. All the officers concede that this gang of robbers is made up of some of the most desperate men that ever handled a revolver, and with that knowledge firmly fixed in their minds, the officers are taking no chances, so that if the robbers' roost is found, a bloody battle may be looked for in which no quarter will be given on either side. The officers all have instructions to shoot to kill on sight," and as every man has been chosen for his known nerve, the result must necessarily be interesting.

The sugar-sack mask found on the trail has been identified as that taken from a barn near here on the night before the robbery. The general opinion is that the robbers came to Roseburg, and the officers are engaged in shadowing suspected parties and collecting evidence sufficient for arrests. the virus of the vaccine vanquished the toxine of the diphtheria. He watched the cases very closely, and he felt so certain of the correctness of his conclusion that in the notice of the cases which he sent to the Health Office, he announced that the diphtheria had been lightened by yaccination. In discussing the matter Dr. Woolsey said: "The thought suggested by these recent cases of mine is the antagonism of one disease for another, like crysipelas to cancer, which is an entirely new idea as applied to dipheria. Whether or not it will prove of any practical value is a question upon which I feel rather doubtful, but it is nevertheless of great interest scientifically and throws new light on subjects. It may incidently be a point of vantage for experiments in other directions."

The testimony of Albert Stetson of the firm of Merrill & Stetson of San Francisco. was read from the reporter's note book as given at the former trial. Mr. Stetson had also seen Wootton in San Francisco. He believed that the date was after his disappearance from the ranch, but was no so positive on this point as Chambers was. W. R. Attorneys Delmas and Reddy for the defense were called to the witness stand and told the prosecuting counsel that the blanks were not intended to deceive the court, but to confuse expert witnesses and to test their expert knowledge. The witnesses further testified that the defendant, Cooney, knew nothing of the printing of the blanks and that the ruse was undertaken, not for use in the present criminal case, but partly in the interest of Mrs. Crafor use in the present criminal case, but partly in the interest of Mrs. Craven and also for use in the civil action of Cooney against Charles L. This startling statement was made by the president of Stanford Uni-versity in the course of a lecture de-livered at Berkeley yesterday under the auspices of the Unitarian Society. His audience, which filled Stiles's Hall, was composed largely of members of the university faculty and students, but even these exponents of advanced thought were rather startled at the emphatic views expressed by the head of the Palo Alto institution, and a de-cided furore was predicted when the report of his utterances reaches the orthodox ministry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Nicaragua Canal Bill occupied the attention of the Senate most of the day, but no progress was made toward a final vote. Mr. Morgan, in charge of the measure, sought to secure an agreement to vote tomorrow or Thursday, but the opponents of the measure, led by Mr. Vilas and Mr. Daniel, resisted any agreement. While disclaiming any purpose of obstructing or dibustering against of obstructing or fillbustering against the bill, the opposition insisted that it was of such grave moment as to de-Answering the appeals made to him, Mr. Vilas said the opposition was inspired by no personal motives, but he regarded it as a great public duty that the recklessness of the canal project should be elaborately presented to the Senate and the country.

The Senator analyzed and criticised the bill, section by section. He regarded section as disclosing the mouse in the meal. It provided the reimbursement to the old Nicaraguan Canal Company for all expenses, cost of promotion, etc., up to 34,500,000 with interest. This section was positive in terms and would go into effect, though all the rest of the bill and the canal falled of execution. The property of this company, according to the government engineers, was hardly worth $500,000.

Some discussion took place as to when the treaty will be taken up for consideration, and the disposition was shown to have it go over until it could be printed as amended. Senator Morgan, notwithstanding the treaty was to go over, insisted upon expressing his views to some extent on the subject. He made it very plain that he opposed the treaty. Several Senators expressed the opinion that the amendments, as well as the treaty, should be made public, and also took the stand that the discussion should be public in order that the people might see the advantages or defects in the instrument. Several members announced the intention of giving as much publicity to the treaty as possible.

Gen: J. M. Wilson, the new Chief of Engineers, is a Washington boy by birth and during his early youth was a page in the United States Senate. He was appointed to the army from the Territory of Washington and graduated in 1860. In the war he served in the artillery and ordnance, but was transferred to the engineers corps later on. His war service was brilliant and he received brevets as captain for gallantry at Gaines's Mill, Va.; as major for the same at Malvern Hill; as lieutenant-colonel for his work in the campaign against Mobile, and as colonel for gallant service at Spanish Fork and Fort Blakely, Ala. He was in most of the heavy engagements in the Gulf Fort Blakely, Ala. He was in most of the heavy engagements in the Gulf campaign. Since the war he has had charge of engineering works on the Great Lakes, in New England, in Cal-ifornia and Oregon and some portions of the Middle Atlantic States. From of the Middle Atlantic States. From 1890 to 1893 he was superintendent of the West Point Military Academy. Since then he has been in charge of the public buildings and grounds in Washington in addition to his duties as division engineer and as such had to do with the completion of the Washington monument and the erection of the monument to Washington at Wakefield, Va. He has had close relations with President Cleveland and has been master of ceremonies at most of the public functions at the White House during the present administration.

Gen. Craighill Retired.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Gen. W. P. Craighill, chief of engineers, was placed on the retired list of the army today at his own request, under the thirty years' service law. In his letter applying for retirement, the general says that in the forty-eight years of his service in the array he has only six months! leave of absence, or an average of between three and four days a year. He adds:

'Having still considerable vigor left, and wishing not to live in idleness the remainder of my life. I have sought for employment, with good prospects of securing it, which will be made better by an early retirement, and not waiting for the formal operation of the law."

Revision of the Banking System. Bimetallism is Impossible.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Comptroller of the Currency Eckles had a second conference with the House Committee on Banking and Currency today.
Eckels expressed the opinion that the only remedy for the existing financial troubles was a complete revision of the banking system which would amount almost to a new system.
The discussion was an informal one,
in which all the members took part.
Eckels thought no more gold for re-

now. The only use for metallic money was for redemption purposes.

Representative Newlands of Neyada the principal representative of free silver on the committee, asked many questions; In response, Mr. Eckels said the countries which had the best developed systems of credit were England, the United States, France, and Germany. Banks did not need such large reserves so much to protect their our rency as their deposits.

Russia had been hindered in its endeavors to reach a gold standard, Eckels said, by adverse business conditions, and heavy taxation. The characteristics of the Russian people were such that more gold was required for redemption than in countries where the people were more used to banking methods.

Mr. Eckels said that France, England, we have the light of the states had better the people were more used to banking methods.

redemption than in countries where the people were more used to banking methods.

Mr. Eckels said that France, England and the United States had at times had a surplus of gold, which was proven by the fact that they had exchanged it for commodities.

This export of gold from the United States had not always been voluntary and sometimes was detrimental. England had been able to secure gold from France when she needed it, and the United States, France and England could secure it from one another when necessary. It was not necessary that countries should always hold fixed quantities of gold.

Mr. Newlands asked: "Is it not true what Bismarck said that this gold blanket is not large enough to cover the world?"

Mr. Eckels replied: "I do not think so, and Bismarck has less reputation as a financier than other statesmen who have risen to great prominence."

When a government was not able to obtain all the gold it needed by exthange, it could buy it from the mines. The appreciation in value of gold would work no harm, but he thought it had not increased. In conclusion, Mr. Eckels said he thought bimetallism practically impossible, and if possible it would not facilitate commercial exchange. There had never been a time when the two metals circulated concurrently and independently of each other.

LEXINGTON (Ky.,) Feb. 1.—There is a movement on foot among the gold and silver Democrats of Kentucky toward an amalgamation between these two wings of the party. A gold man, D. F. Frazee, outlines the plan as follows:

"I earnestly hope the Democrats of Kentucky will get together, and I see no good reason why they should not. I believe if a plan could be arranged by which a representative gold Democrat from each county could meet and talk over crait from each county in Kentucky could meet and talk over the situation some means could be devised by which the party could come solidly together. Of course, the men selected for the proposed convention should be broadminded men who have the best interests of the party at heart. I hope such a convention will be held in this city at an early date. There are a great many Democrats of both factions who think as I do. I believe the majority of the Democrats who voted for Mc-Kinley because of the currency issue do not at all like the idea of affiliating permanently with the Republican party, and I believe they will be glad to stand shoulder to shoulder with their old Democratic colleagues to fight the cammon foe."

The free-silver Democrats, although they fought the gold-standard members of their party last fall, are nearly all in favor of burying the hatchet and uniting with their sold brethren.

The Attorney-General is in favor of the plan, but desires that the bill be drawn so that the negotiations now under way for a settlement of the affairs of the Union Pacific should not be interfered with. It is probable that the committee will accept an amendment drawn by Representative Harrison of Alabams, providing that the pending negotiations be not affected by the bill. The Attorney-General gave the opinion that if a commission was created which would be empowered to carry to a conclusion the settlement with the syndicate which stands ready to take the Union 1 Scific, the syndicate might be induced to raise its bid in order to avoid delay in taking the matter through the courts. The commission contempiated in Mr. Harrison's bill would be able to carry on the settlement which he has

It is, however, doubtful whether the Harrison bill will be considered by the House this session, because of the shortness of time remaining, although the committee may report it to the House tomorrow.

the junior security holders of the Atlantic and Pacific against the foreclosure proceedings to be instituted against that road in the near future will have no effect, according to officials of the Atchison road, upon their control of the Atlantic and Pacific. The agreement between the Atchison and the first-mortgage bondholders is not for the purchase of the road at the foreclosure sale, but for the purchase of the securities held by the first-mortgage holders.

In making the purchase of these se-

THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

is Conceded to Be a Revival of the Ascient Plague.

[Baltimore Sun:] The plague which has been raging for six months past at Bombay, and to some extent at other places in India, is conceded to be "the true plague." In its general character it is identical with "the black death," which, in the fourteenth century, destroyed, it is said, 100,000 lives in London, the lives of seven-eighths of the population of England, and some twenty-five million persons, or one-fourth, of the population of Europe. But sanitary science is supposed to twenty-five million persons, or onefourth, of the population of Europe.
But sanitary science is supposed to have mitigated its virulence or lessened its opportunities, the mortality is kept down to about 1000 per week.
Calucutta, with 1,000,000 inhabitanta, owing to efficient sanitation, is substantially free from the plague.
At the first outbreak in the past year nearly every case was fatal. Up to the third week of November 730 persons had been attacked, and of these 517 died. Its victims are almost uniformly very poor and ill-fed natives.
The English seldom, or never, take the disease. The steps taken to purify the cities of India, in order to protect them, consist chiefly in cleansing them by a liberal use of water. As in fighting the famine, so in fighting the plague, the Hindoos are indebted to the arts and sciences of Europe. But for the foreign government, with its railroads and advanced ideas, the mortality of India would, during the pressent affliction of famine and plague, be increased, doubtless, by many millions.

The plague is a glandular fever, at-

The plague is a giandular fever, attended with a swelling of the groin. It seems to be unknown whether it is due to a microbe or to unsanitary conditions. It ravaged Hongkong a few years ago, destroying many thousands there. It is endemic in China and the Euphrates Valley, just as cholera had its home in the delta of the Ganges. London suffered from it in 1665 and again in 1720. During the present century Asia has been the chief scentury Asia has been the chief scentury Asia has been the chief scene of its activity. In 1830, at Bagdad, the death rates from it was 2000 a day, and on April 21 of that year as many as 30,000 dead bodies were counted there. It appeared again on the Euphrates in 1867, 1873 and 1877. Its ravages in China have been enormous, but little was known in Europe of the extent of the losses it caused.

The Passing of Bryan.

[New York Tribune:] The failure of Mr. Bryan in the lecture field, in which he was expected to draw large audiences and keep himself and the cause of free silver before the people for the next four years, appears to have been more complete and abject than represented in the first reports. So ardent an admirer as ex-Secretary Hoke Smith, who threw up his place in the Cabinet in order to be free to give him his support upon the stump, is reported as saying the other day in Washington that the lecture in Atlanta was the most complete collapse he had ever heard or known, and that if a free lecture by Mr. Bryan had been advertised for the next evening he would have had no audience at all. Mr. Bryan himself in a letter to a friend in Augusta, Ga., which has been published, admits as much by undertaking to make a long explanation of the reasons why he did not meet the expectations of his hearers, who he realizes went away from the hall disappointed. He begins this letter by saying that he fears "it will be impossible to prevent some disappointment, because a man is judged by his best efforts, and these are drawn out by great occasions." He then proceeds to set forth at considerable length the difference in conditions when he made his famous speech from those under which he appeared at Atlanta. Sifted down and read between the lines, his explanation is that at Chicago he appealed to emotion and passion; at Atlanta to calm intelligence and sober judgment.

And he is entirely right. He struck

It was not strange after this that the wild-eved conglomerate of cranks and faddists should go off their feet and nominate the first man who rose up before them with a powerful voice, attractive manners, a stagey delivery and no end of cratorical east wind in him. It was simply the creatures beneath him and in play in the logic of events. THE HOTEL VAN NUYS IS NOW OPEN.

And he is entirely right. He struck twelve at Chicago because he addressed an audience hungering for froth, foam and east wind, and he gave them a bellyful. So soon as he came East and entered upon the field of coherent argument and serious discussion of the questions he was supposed to understand he went to pleces. His speech in Madison Square Garden, advertised, beforehand to be the greatest effort of his life, was his attempt to grapple seriously with the issues of the campaign, and treat them upon the high plane demanded by an intelligent, though not critical and by no means unfriendly, audience. It is a matter of history that he falled so utterly even to interest his hearers that they began streaming out of doors before he had been talking fifteen minutes, and his warmest friends were compelled either to apologize for his failure or hang their heads in shame over the blunder of his nomination. The history of politics—which furnished no precedent for the wild enthusiasm with which he, a comparatively unknown man, had carried a convention off its feet by a single burst of what passed for oratory—offered no parallel for the suddeness and completeness of the dreadful slump which followed. There was never such a rocket in its scintillating and dazzling flight, and never so dull wooden and sudden a stick in its descent.

Well, why was it? How came a Democratic National Convention to make such a hideous and disastrous blunder? THE TWO BELLS.

They Were Not in Harmony, and Jarred on the Fair Girl's Mind.

[Washington Star:] There was a young woman with a musical ear sitting in a corner of the cable car. Several times she looked up with curious surprise as the conductor rang the bell to register fares. The bell did not always sound the same. Sometimes it had a dull, clanking tone, and every now and then it came out sharp and clear, several notes higher in the scale. She was a demure little creature, with blonde frizzes, and she became so interested in the variations played on the bell that she quite neglected the paper-covered novel which lay in her lap—a novel which she was evidently not reading for the first time, for she had dropped it to listen to the bell she never troubled herself to find the place.

But in the course of time she reached a more interesting portion of the work. There were things that she apparently desired to remember, for she took a lead a more interesting portion of the work. There were things that she apparently desired to remember, for she took a lead pencil from a small bag and began to mark passages here and there.

She rode almost to the end of the line. Just before the car finally stopped she took out a notebook. The conductor happened to come to the front of the car and he glanced at what she wrote. It was the number of his car.

As she walked toward the railway office he opened the door that looked out on the front platform, and said to out on the front platform, and said to the motorman: "It's all up, Jim. I told you somebody would note the dif-ference in the sound of those two bells."

EVERY MAN HAS SOME AMBITION, some desire to make a mark or be known as a success in a given field. No one wants to be calied has been a "fallure." or "weak-kneed." Now, to make a success in life, to be at the top, you must be mentally and physically strong. If you have a known weakness, if you lack nerve force, if you are suffering from nervous debility, you cannot be a grand success. Your life will end in failure.

EIGHT HUNDRED DOLLARS SHORT

The Work of a Single Man, Unsupported by Boards of Trustees, in Coping with the Distress of the Worthy Poor.

Three hundred and twelve men slep at the Good Samaritan Mission on Upper Main street Sunday night and more than three hundred and fifty took refuge there last night from the pelting The cold, ceaseless rain of the storm. The cold, ceaseless rain of the last two days drove hundreds of homeless stragglers to seek shelter for the night in Capt. Frazier's lodging-house. Out of 312 men who applied for beds Sunday night, eighty-three did not have even the bare nickel to pay for a night's lodging, but they were taken in and cared for just the same. Last night the press was even greater and sally the press was even greater, and fully one hundred men had to explain their poverty in order to receive a bunk. This is to say nothing of the hundreds of good, substantial meals that were of good, substantial meals that were given away, for no man who can make a showing of worth and honesty is turned away cold, hungry or homeless by Capt. Frazier. If the applicant cannot pay on entrance, as is the rule of the place, he is told to make his debt good when he can.

Poverty is no crime within the precincts of the Good Samaritan, but a dead beat or a common drunk had best not apply for admittance. He will be shown the door with little ceremony and he need not hope to escape detection by the experienced eye of Capt. Frazier. While charity is dealt out unstintingly, it is strictly within the lines of intelligent benevolence for the meritorious only. horses were taken from a pasture on his ranch twenty miles south of Hanford on December 20, 1896. The barbwire fence was cut and seventeen horses out of a herd of 150 head were stolen. Two trips were made by the thieves, and about fifteen of the horses came back, eight being tied neck and neck and seven being found in a neighboring field. The seventeen mentioned as stolen were over and above the fifteen that came back.

The thieves took a route along the Tulare bottom, taking up the wiregrass and tules to obliterate the tracks and muffing the horses feet with gunny sacks. They kept on the west side of Lake Tulare along Miller's grant for 100 miles or more, and during the rainy, foggy weather last month made the trip without attracting any attention.

The thieves went through the San

At 7:30 o'clock last evening the large assembly room down stairs was crowded. Every seat was occupied and men were standing about the walks. It was not a gathering of hobos, tramps and social outcasts, such as many persons in this city imagine are the habitual inmates of the Good Samaritan Mission. There were numbers of well-dressed mechanics, some clerks and scores of intelligent-looking working men. The general aspect of the crowd was surprisingly good. But they were out of a job, shelterless and hungry, and, where perhaps some had enough funds to pay as they went, they knew that there was only a few days between them and beggary, unless they found work.

There was a mission meeting in session. S. H. Hadley, the successor of Jerry McAuley in charge of the old Water-street Mission in New York, was to speak in the course of the evening. Perfect order prevailed. There was no whispering, no shuffling of feet; no lack of attention. If any did not enter fully into the spirit of the services, they were at least respectful and reverent. fully into the spirit of the services, they were at least respectful and reverent. Capt. Frazier sat on the edge of a table in the rear of the hall. If a newcomer, straggling in, hugged the big stove in the center of the room, a look or a gesture directed him to a seat. No more perfect discipline could be seen in a schoolroom or a barrack.

At the close of the services most of the men went upstairs to register for the night. Each man gave his name to the clerk and paid his nickel. Then he was handed a clean, white nightgown and a numbered gunnysack in

Along the walls and running the length of the room stand the bunks, three deep.
Across the frame of each bunk is stretched a canvass for mattress, and a double blanket and a large quilt go

There is room for 460 men in the sultory way, and with the best of management he cannot make both ends meet without shutting his door in the face of hundreds of needy men. For the next three months, unless conditions take an unexpected change among the laboring men, he will need at least $10 a day, or $300 a month. He has no means of raising this, and if he falls to get it, scores of hungry and shelterless men will be turned adrift to subsist as best they can. To close the doors of the Good Samaritan Mission, or even to limit its capacity by enforcing absolutely the cash-payment rule, means that the streets will be filled with honest beggars and the jalls with deserving vagrants.

The Good Samaritan Mission needs $1000 in cash; needs it now—today—and the people of Los Angeles surely will provide that amount of money and provisions and clothing as soon as they know the facts.

The foregoing is a presentation of the hundred acres in wheat. The times were so hard and money so scarce that one day Greeley said the struggle for wealth was too much for him, and he would rather be in the penitentiary than going about from place to place penniless. Furthermore, getting rich was but slow work at best, and he proposed making a strike that would bring him some money if he succeeded in the enterprise.

The theft of the horses then followed, several trips being made to bring the stock south. Rood located several of the animals that the officers had been unable, so far, to find track of. These latter will be recovered as soon as possible.

unable, so far, to find track of. These latter will be recovered as soon as possible.

As to the thieves themselves, Rood says he lives in Fresno, and Greeley's parents have lived for some time near Glendora. The Greeleys have always borne a good reputation, and the whole neighborhood is astonished at the developments of the last few days. It is said by those who know him that Fred Greeley was a very good boy until six months or a year ago, when he got to going with bad company, and rapidly became worse and worse. Both of the young men are about 24 years of age. Detective Griffith is considerably elated over the capture of these men, as his chase for them has been a long one. He followed two or three different trails before he struck the right one, only to have them end nowhere. Griffith has displayed remarkable perseverance on this last trip, and while coming through Tejon Pass spent a couple of nights in the open air, unable to find brush or branches enough to keep him off the snow.

So far only four of the stolen horses have been recovered, and they are left awaiting their owners at Lancaster. Detective Griffith starts for Hanford with his prisoners today. visions and clothing as soon as they know the facts.

The foregoing is a presentation of the facts gathered last night by The Times, and The Times will today receive for the Good Samaritan Mission the money that the people of Los Angelts will contribute. MYSTERIOUS ASSAULT.

William Walker Met a Stranger Who Had a Bottle.

Who Had a Bottle.
William Walker, employed by the Southern Pacific Railroad as a car repairer, was taken to the Receiving Hospital late last night suffering with a severe wound behind his left ear. He was dazed and had the appearance of a man who had been drinking heavily or been drugged.

Officer Vignes encountered him at Washington Gardens, corner of Washington and Main streets, about midnight, and seeing that the man was injured he called the patrol wagon and seen him to the Receiving Hospital. Police Surgeon Hagan found a deep cut about three-quarters of an inch long behind the right ear, evidently made with the hammer of a revolver or some blunt instrument. Walker told a very disconnected story of his movements since early yesterday morning. After drawing his pay he fell in with a young fellow who seemed to know him and wandered about the town with him. In the evening, he took one drink from the stranger rappled with him. A pistol shot was fired and the stranger ran away without securing his money.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The disciples New YORK, Jan. 26.—The disciples of physical culture have found that the secret of effective physical work is to let the muscles exert themselves, instead of trying to actuate them by what is really brutal compulsion. We stead of trying to actuate them by what is really brutal compulsion. We have to go back to nature in these matters. The Indian will trot fifty miles, with his forward stoop and the loose, relaxed, afterswing of the leg as it moves forward to maintain gravity, with less exertion than a white man would ordinarily expend on covering half the distance. In exactly the same way people cramp the powers of their mind by hurry and worry, through ignorance of the simple laws of the gymnastics of rest. Dr. G. R. Wilson says that there is all the difference in the world between promptness or quickness and hurry. When we hurry, we are anxious-minded, we "press," to use a goling term, and the excessive tension disorders our activities. Worry, another vice of the mind, is the inability to withdraw the thoughts from unpleasantness. This is unniecessary and can be easily avoided. Dr. Wilson advises every one, as one of the first steps to mental rest, to get into the way of resting the eye. The best way of doing this is to turn the eyes loose on the horizon and let them stay there. City people, however, have to do the next best thing, which is, to cultivate the habit of looking at a distance when there is no distance to look at, and rest the eyes on an imaginary picture of the horizon. A second step toward rest is the relaxation of that tension in the muscles around the eye, and especially in the muscles of the forehead. the norizon. A second step toward rest is the relaxation of that tension in the muscles around the eye, and especially in the muscles of the forehead, which characterizes city men and busy men everywhere when they are intent on their business. A third step is the teaching of the muscles around the mouth to "stand at ease," rather than "at attention." It is a mistake to suppose that this subject is trivial; nothing is more evident in this bustling age than that most men and women have not the most remote notion of what they would themselves call "a levelheaded way of working," and of keeping their mind at rest.

MAKING FROSTED GLASS.

Many people have wondered how the beautiful effect of frosted and scintiliating glass is secured. The method is quite ingenious. Over the aurface of the glass to be frosted is spread a thick solution of ordinary glue. In the case of plate glass this coat is about one-sixth of an inch thick, and as uniform as possible. ASPHALT IN MEXICO.

It appears not unlikely that an abundant and convenient source of asphalt will soon be open to American dealers. Vice-Consul Bielenborg, at the United States Consulate of Matamoros, Mex., writes that, having heard much of a tract of petroleum land within a few days' journey, he decided to go and see it. Accompanied by a friend, he followed a hard road for some three hundred miles through a country very little settled, until one of the richest asphalt fields known was reached, where there were twenty wells, each having a continuous flow. He took samples, which were afterward analyzed, and pronounced to be a rich mineral tar, but not petroleum. The ground for over twenty miles square is covered with asphalt deposits. From all indications there should be a large deposit of petroleum and coal under this asphalt field. A concession has been obtained to work the fields, and operations are soon to be begun. As the land is near the coast line, in the district of Sota de la Marina, transportation can be effected by water.

Nut Growing in the East.

(New York Tribune:) In Camden, N.
J., just back of Blackwood, there is probably the largest single cultivated chestnut grove in this country, and from its 350 acres of woodland several thousand bushels of large chestnuts are harvested every fall and shipped to New York City. About ten years ago it dawned upon farmers and business men that money could be made by raising chestnuts for the market, and about that time trees were planted extensively throughout the country, the fruits of which are just now made apparent in the decreased cost of chestnuts and the heavy supply that comes to the large cities. The grove in Camden county was planted about five years ago by a company which called itself the Mammoth Chestnut Company, and they selected a fine natural grove of chestnut trees and then started in to graft on these trees the mammoth imported chestnuts. At first the French and Ialian chestnuts, the largest kinds that reach our markets then, were grafted upon the native trees, but later the improved Japanese varieties were substituted. These are the largest of all chestnuts, and they have attained their present size and quality through years of cultivation and selection. Many of the Japanese chestnut trees have been transplanted to this country, and they have been found hardy enough for the New Jersey climate, yielding large crops of nuts much earlier in the season than the native chestnuts.

All chestnuts by transplanting and cultivation produce ripe nuts earlier than the wild trees. The cultivated Japanese nuts do not require the frost to give them that delicious flavor which makes native nuts so desirable, but they can be harvested with the peach and plum without losing any of produce crops wherever peaches do well. The white walnuts, or butternuts, bear abundantly and command good prices. England is a great consumer of walnuts, and takes over 150,000 bushels from the continent every season. These nuts can be raised here, and when the home markets are supplied they could be shipped to England at less cost than those which are now imported from the continent. In New York State and New Jersey the English walnuts have been successfully grown. Trees planted in Bergen county in 1854 began to produce in 1864 and they have been yielding a good annual crop ever since.

ADVANTAGES OF NUT-GROWING.

Nut-growing has many advantages over fruit culture, and farmers who have entered it are enthusiastic in their attitude. They feel safe from the uncertainties of irregular markets, for there is no danger of an over-production for many years to come. The ploneers in the industry who have brought their trees to the bearing period are now assured of a steady market for all their products for ten or more years, at remunerative prices. How long this favorable condition of affairs will last after that depends upon the number who start into the business. At present a good many nut trees are being planted every year, both for the

the number who start into the business. At present a good many nut trees are being planted every year, both for the fruit and for the timber. If a farmer is going to plant trees for timber he prefers to select those that bear nuts, for he can then secure an incidental crop from them.

Nut trees are also proof against droughts and risks of frost, something which the fruit-grower can scarcely understand, for his crops are all raised through incessant labor in protecting his trees from cold and dry weather. The trees and nuts have their insect enemies, and the growers must look out The trees and nuts have their insect enemies, and the growers must look out for them, or, like the fruit-growers, they will find their whole crop ruined some year. The weevil infests the hickory, chestnut, pecan, and even the filbert, and the mistletoe will kill the walnut trees if not fought. But these are the chief and about the only enemies, and not one of them compares with the insects that attack the common fruits.

A few years ago our annual crop of nuts was harvested mainly from the wild trees found growing in the forests or along the edges and roads of ancient fields, and the impressions of "nutting days" in early autumn are still fresh in days" in early autumn are still fresh in the memory, when trees were clubbed with sticks and stones to knock down the burrs before the squirrels could carry them away to their winter storehouses, but all this is so changed now that one must go into one of the cultivated groves in order to understand modern methods of nutting. If the trees are raised exclusively for their nuts they present a very picturesque sight. The grove has the regularity of an orange or apple orchard. The walnut, hickory, chestnut and pecan trees are planted about thirty-six to forty-two feet apart, and the almonds and filberts from twelve to fifteen feet. When young these trees are situated so far apart that the grove looks deserted and barren, and other crops are planted be-Some manufacture of the classes of the strong of the stron

the Constitution is that Congress alone or without his approval if a two-thirds majority of each house shall so decree This power is derived by Congress di rectly from the people, and Congress i of the Constitution. The question need not be discussed at length, for it may that the scheme-at least in its present form—will find but little favor in either house of Congress.

It is possible that good results might flow from a tariff commission, properly constituted, with duties and powers clearly defined and specifically limited. But the functions of such a commission should be advisory rather than manda-

In addition to the above objections to well be doubted whether the scheme carried out in strict accordance with the ideas of its projector, would accom plish its professed object, viz., the per-manency of tariff legislation. A commission clothed with power to increase or decrease duties at will would be sub-ject to constant pressure from one interest or another, and the result would probably be far less permanency than now in our tariff schedules. What the commercial and industrial interests of most desire, is permanency in the rates of duty, after those rates have been established upon a basis which will pro-vide sufficient revenue for the needs of the government, and afford reasonable and equitable protection to our most important industries. The one thing not wanted is the thing most conspic-

But there are no sufficient funds available in the hands of the good manager, Capt, these wretched human beings. This is a deplorable state of affairs. Southern California has fully oven that judiclous and persistent advertising pays a community as well as it does an individual. Since the great display of products made by outhern California at the World's Fair, the population of this county has lmost doubled. There is no doubt vhatever that this remarkable increase In population is largely due to the great displays of products made by the southern counties at Chicago, San Francisco and Atlanta. The people of the northern part of the State complain that they do not get their fair share of immigration. Let them take a leaf out to toot their horn a little louder. The oming exposition at Omaha affords a good chance to make a begin-n this line. Let there be a friendly rivalry between the various sections of the State as to which can nake the most attractive display, not osing sight of the fact that we are all

The company has been strengthened by the addition of several new members, but one misses the faces of McAlpin and Dolly Foster, who have come to be looked upon as the regular hilarity-furnishers of every piece. Jessie Welburn, as Marina Paoli, the Corsican tigress, who devotes her life to hunting down the man who murdered her brother in a duel, and finally thinks she has found him in the man she has loved and married, does quite the best work in the piece. In the scene where her foster-father urges her to remember her vow, and in the last act when she is shown the proof that her husband is her brother's slayer, she rises admirably to the situation, giving her lines with a tragic strength that is intensely thrilling. Her mad scene, where she thinks her husband has been killed, and that it is his spirit instead of his body she sees before her, is exceptionally well done. Katie Pearson makes an acceptable Enid Anstruther, Miss Wilson Enos is well-cast as Lady Chartris, the festive widow, and Adah Sherman as Maud, the overgrown enfant terrible, whose mother has not permitted her to have a birthday for six years, furnishes about the only merriment there is in the piece. NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—[Special Dispatch:] Advices received here as to the damage sustained by orange trees in Florida from the recent frost are conflicting. As a will be because conflicting. As a rule, however, com-mission merchants and fruiterers who have groves in Florida are of the opin-on that the trees have not suffered any serious injury. Others think the crop suffered. Unlike the frost of three years ago, when about all the trees in the State perished, the present frost has been gradual, and planters have had time to take what precautions they and time to take what precautions the could for the protection of their groves It is admitted on all sides that th

"Our dvices from the orange-growing districts as yet have been so meager it is almost impossible to tell exactly the amount of damage, if any, that the trees have sustained. We know from late advices that the temperature at Jacksonville has been down as low as 20 deg. above zero, and at Tampa and Orlando 28 deg., but I have a letter from a large grower at Orlando this afternoon, saying so far as can be seen the trees have suffered no damage Fires have been kept lighted in the groves, so the intense cold has not been able to penetrate them. At the same time he tells the temperature is still dangerously low, near the freezing point, but the only damage trees have thus far sustained has been the freezing of some of the leaves. The crop itself has suffered no great damage."

Our advices, however, do not show that the trees suffered any damage. Florida is getting to be an uncertain place for raising oranges. This year's crop amounts to less than 200,000 boxes. Before the frost of three years ago, the annual output amounted to over 5.000,have fallen to one-fiftieth of what & was before the war in Cuba, and Ja-maica's crop this season will no amount to more than 200,000 boxes. In fact, everything seems to show that California will soon have a monopoly of the orange trade. It is necessary to await further advices from Southern agents before a comprehensive idea of the real damage to the Florida crop can be given."

even More Futile Ballots for United States Senator.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] SALT LAKE (Utah.) Feb. 1.—The result of seven Senatorial ballots today was: Thatcher, 27; Rawlins, 19, Henderson, 14; Critchlow, 3. Throughout the seven ballots Henderson held his fourteen votes of Saturday, while Thatcher lost one and Rawlins gained six. The most radical changes ocurred on the first ballot and was mainly a contest between Thatcher and Rawlins. While there has been a slight variation in the strength of the leading candidates as the result of today's balloting, the deadlock seems no less pronounced than it was last week, the last six ballots showing scarcely a change in the voting. Cannon made an eloquent speech and changed her vote from Powers to Thatcher.

The vote for Rawlins was augmented by the return of Wright and Sorensen, who were absent last week, a gain of Wilson and Shepard, formerly voting for Thatcher, by Kenner, who was excused from voting on the last ballot on Saturady, and by Benson, who had been voting for Powers. In the afternoon Perkins changed from Harris to Thatcher. Critchlow received the three Republican votes on every ballot.

The factional leaders seem to be less sanguine tonight than at any time during the contest. Thatcher's followers claim that they will go into the contest tomorrow with their present strength, but the assertions are not made with the same degree of confidence that was noticeable on Saturday.

There is a rumor tonight that there will be a break in the Henderson forces tomorrow, and that five or six of his followers will go to Rawlins, and that the latter will then receive three Republican votes. The friends of Henderson do not concede that such a break will occur. The rumor probably originated from the fact that the Republicans have voted through seven ballots for Critchlow, who is the law partner of Rawlins. The four Populists appear to be the most uncertain factor in the contest. While they are with Thatcher now, it has been said that their votes will go to any one of the three candidates whenever it is shown that four votes will elect.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.] SACRAMENTO, Jan. 31.—Back in the dawn of history, the making of mud, whence green things might grow that man might live and thrive, engaged the patient attention of the tillers of the soil, and today, under the electric glare of nineteenth-century civilization, we find the same problem in new forms find the same problem in new forms occupying the minds of the agricultur-its, the financier and the lawmaker. Legislation for irrigation that irrigation may flourish without litigation, is a crying need of the times, and suggestions and advice have poured in upon our western land-holders from not only the length and breadth of our own country, but even from far beyond the Western America is peculiarly the of their best features. The celebrity which the Wright Irrigation Act obtained by the famous litigation ending in the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States has turned the eyes of the foreign husbandmen to our soils, the attention of far-away bankers to our monds and of lawmakers everywhere to the wise provisions and the safeguards which surround the Golden State's process of coining the earth into gold by the alchemic agency of water. The imperfections of the Wright law have formed the subject matter of innumerable discussions and have been admitted by even the author himself. It is conceded to be by far the best set of provisions in existence; yet under it alleged abuses have sprung up that have worked undisputed hardships and furnished causes for ruinous litigation. The thousands of farmers that were on the point of losing their little all and the great sums at stake depending on the fate of district bonds are features of the controversy over the Wright Act too recent to need enlarging upon. The want of some legislation that should more nearly protect the doctrine of riparian rights and furnish relief from a condition of affairs that had become almost intolerable was apparent to more than one man who made his way to the which the Wright Irrigation Act of parian rights and furnish relief from a condition of affairs that had become almost intolerable was apparent to more than one man who made his way to the State capital the first of this year prepared to work for the best interests of his constituents. Yea, even the boodler, seeing the hundreds of thousands of doilars in bonds trembling in the balance and the distress that was abroad in the land where irrigation districts had been organized, came joyously to Sacramento, whooping it up: "Irrigation's the thing;" then quietly caucused by himself and got his cinch bill ready.

At a meeting of the Assembly Committee on Irrigation at the opening of the session a plan of action was discussed, and it was decided to uphold the general features of the Wright law and amend it where necessary. Then a joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly committees, at which Griffin of Modesto, Attorney George H. Maxwell same thing. be illegal in the formation of the district, or the acts of the Supervisors, the illegality can rest two years before suit may be brought. Under the new law every step in the formation of a district must be verified by the Supervisors or the Superior Court of the district inside of six months or a year, so that any part of the formation of such district is beyond dispute. This proviso acts against the colonization of the floating vote, which at present can prevent the issuance of bonds.

In the voting of bonds it is required by the proposed substitute that there must not only be a majority of resident voters in favor of an election, but such an election cannot be had except on petition of a majority interest of the total land valuation in the district. This again knocks out the floaters.

In district elections under the Wright law the directors are voted for at large, and there are from three to five directors to a district. The new arrangement will be a division of each district into from three to five parts, and one director is to be chosen from each division. A majority of directors may constitute a quorum to do business. The maximum pay of a director is $3 a day instead of $4 as now. Their term of service has not yet been fixed.

The new law will permit the consolidation of the secretary, collector, assessor and treasurer of a district, as the people may see fit. Many suggestions have been made that the county officers constitute the irrigation district officers, but the sentiment of the majority of committeemen was against it.

One feature that will especially commend the new law to the farmer, it

One feature that will especially commend the new law to the farmer, it is believed, is that for the payment of taxes by coupons and warrants. As it is now, the taxpayer must pay his taxes in gold coin, and if the bondholders happened to be in with the Treasurer they would have their coupons paid off the first thing, in gold. The new law will allow the farmer to pay his taxes by doing work upon the ditches. The limit to which these farmers can turn in their work-warrants against by doing work upon the ditches. The limit to which these farmers can turn in their work-warrants against their district taxes is a matter of detail not yet decided upon.

The section of the committee bill which has aroused the greatest interest, and which, it is claimed, solves a problem that has been a nightmare to struggling districts, is the refunding feature, the germ of which is Melick's own, though it has been ascribed to various people. The new law allows a district, on petition from a majority interest of the land valuation therein, to call an election which shall be participated in by the residents of the district. The plan is simple, and does away with what has been called the constitutional requirements of elections. On this petition and this election the people of the district can decide if they wish to refund.

The Wright law has been tied up for several years by contrary opinions, and a large amount of bonds have become due without the wherewith being at hand for their payment. A lot of these bonds have been traded off for lands and water-rights at a low valuation. This new provision permits the districts to compromise and take the new forty-year bonds at not over 5 per cent. interest, so that irrigation district securities will, hereafter, if the bill becomes a law, be absolutely safe, the inception and growth of each particular district having been safe-guarded with this end in view.

During the discussion in the committee-room R. Percy Wright and another.

ticular district having been safeguarded with this end in view.

During the discussion in the committee-room R. Percy Wright and another San Francisco bond-buyer, an nounced their intention of buying largely of irrigation securities if the bill passes. A letter to Mr. Melick says that $560,000 in bonds is outstanding in Tulare irrigation district, which the people are willing and ready to compromise on the basis of the foregoing provision. In the Big Rock Creek District litigation has tied up $240,000 worth of bonds, which this bill will allow the holders to retund. In Manzana District of Los Angeles county $55,000 is hung up so high it can't be reached, but this irrigation bill will bring it down. The purely speculative element in bond transactions is limited as far as possible; in fact, it is hoped that the new law will prove to be a model that may serve for the people of other States and Territories. It has been suggested that a State commission of irrigation should be appointed. to consist of the Governor, Surveyor-General and Attorney-General. If this feature should be adopted there would be no salaries to be paid, and no charges would lie against the State because of it, and the supervision that would be exercised over the irrigation districts would undoubtedly conduce to better government and satisfactory results. The fate of the bill will be to better government and satisfactory results. The fate of the bill will be watched with interest, and there is reason to believe that it will receive favorable treatment by both houses.

Eleventh and Twelfth streets yesterday morning.

Ex-Chief of Police Dorsey has been digging a number of sewers along Wall street, and the workmen failed to pack the earth down firmly. As a consequence the heavy rain caused a great volume of water to undermine the street, leaving only a thin crust of earth, not strong enough to sustain the weight of a horse.

When the laundry-wagon horse stepped on the crust its fore feet sank through. The frightened animal jumped forward, and when it came down was buried so deeply that only its head was visible above ground, while the wagon stood on the brink of the newly-made chasm.

THREE SHOP-LIFTERS CAUGHT. lever Work of Detectives and Auble Rewarded.

Detectives Hawley and Auble suc

Detectives Hawley and Auble succeeded recently in capturing a trio of shop-lifters who have been operating in Pasadena for some weeks.

A few days ago the detectives heard that the proceeds of these robberies were being sold in this city and they set about to capture the thieves. Finally they found that certain merchants on Los Angeles street were the purchasers, and they kept the stores under surveillance.

They were rewarded by seeing two Mexicans enter one of the stores, while a third man remained on the other side of the street to give warning of the approach of an officer.

The detectives placed the man outside under arrest and then took the other two into custody. They were taken to the City Jail, where they gave the names of Manuel Martines, Lazaro Garcia and Thomas Marin. The men were not booked and the fact of their arrest was kept secret until the rest of the stolen property had been found. The detectives located the men's room in Sonora town and upon searching it found tags which had been removed from the merchandise before it was sold to the Los Angeles-atreet merchants.

Officer Talamantes, who speaks Span-chants.

Officer Talamantes, who speaks Spanish fluently, was detailed to assist Detectives Hawley and Auble, and he succeeded in finding in a room on Buena Vista street a quantity of clothing. In all the police recovered five pairs of pants, three coats and vests and a Stetson hat which bore the trademark of Twombley, the Pasadena hatter.

The prisoners were turned over to Constable Slater of Pasadena and they will be given a hearing today.

AN UNKNOWN SUICIDE.

ody of a Man Found on a Hay

Lying on a slab in Kregelo & Bresse's morgue is the body of an unknown man who had evidently been dead at least a week. The body was found at Puente yesterday morning. John Dietzel and several companions had climbed up on a huge pile of hay in a rude shed in search of owls. Dietzel glanced over in the corner and saw something black. As he approached it a horrible oddor came from the object, and closer investigation proved it to be the body of a human being. The boy went to the postoffice and informed Frank Hays, a brother of the man who was murdered some time ago, of their grewsome discovery. Hays went to the place and took a look at the remains. Then he notified Coroner Campbell, and that official, accompanied by Deputy Summerfield and a representative of Kregelo & Bresse, went to Puente yesterday afternoon.

Beside the body was an empty whisky bottle and also an empty morphine bottle. The body was lowered to the ground and a search of the clothing, which consisted of a pair of blue overalls and a light coat and vest, was made, but there was not a scrap of paper or anything else to identity the remains. Written on the sweat-band of the man's black hat was the name Wenrath. The man was apparently about 30 years of age, with a brown mustache and auburn hair.

Hays told the Coroner he had seen the man eight or nine days ago when he purchased some crackers and candy at his store.

dismissed, and $100 damages awarded as part of the respondent's costs of appeal.

The opinion of the court is as follows: "The case is now before us upon a motion of the respondent to dismiss the appeal on account of the failure of the appellant to file his points and authorities within the time specified by the rules of this court, and also by a motion that respondent be allowed damages, upon the dismissal of the appeal, on the ground that the same was taken merely for delay.

"The motion to dismiss the appeal must clearly be granted, for at the time the motion was submitted, which was several months after the transcript was filed, no points and authorities had been filed by the appellant. When the respondent served his notice, he served upon the appellant an affidavit which showed that the latter, according to his own statements, had taken the appeal for delay. This has not been denied by the appellant.

"It has been held here that upon a notice to dismiss an appeal, and for damages, the court will not look into the records to see if the appeal be frivilous until the final disposition of the same. It has also been held that where an uncontradicted affidavit shows that the appeal was taken for delay, damages will be allowed upon the dismissal of the appeal. It is not necessary to determine here how far we would look into conflicting evidence as to the delay, as the statements in the respondent's affidavit have not been controverted." The opinion was signed by Justice McFariand and concurred in by Justices Temple and Henshaw.

BREAD

The Bread used day after day in each and every household is one of those small and apparently unimportant items that receive due consideration at the hands of but few housekeepers. sekeepers, Bread is bread" in their minds, and they thoughlessly take any kind that a groce or baker may offer. "Yoo, but everybody knows better than to drink dirty and impure "Water is water," boo, but very body water.

Why not be equally fastidious about your bread? There is as much difference between different bread as there is between different kinds of butter—you know how different bad butter is from good butter. Bread is ansceptible of even greater difference, and in order that you should have good bread you must have good flour; and do not allow your greer to paim off on you his own special brand of flour, as he is doing at your expense and his gain, but insist upon his furnishing you with the old tried and true flour.

In the absence of President Silver at the regular session of the City Coun-cil yesterday, Councilman Nickell was made president pro tem.

At the beginning of its session the Council received from the Mayor a nessage in which he returned unsigned ordinance limiting the operations of oil-well borers to within a certain Elvsian and Westlake

Parks. The message read as follows:
"To the Honorable City Council: I herewith return to your honorable body without my signature the ordinance adopted by the Council January 19, 1897, entitled "An ordinance prohibiting the drilling, pumping and operating of oil wells within certain distances of the exterior boundaries of the public parks of the city of Los Angeles.' Councilman Ashman at once moved that the action by which the ordinance was adopted be reconsidered. This was done, and Councilman Toll moved that the ordinance be amended in accord-ance with the Mayor's suggestion, that is, where 1800 feet was mentioned, there is, where 1800 feet was mentioned, there be substituted the distance of 1600 feet. This motion did not prevail, and Councilman Grider moved that a special committee of three be appointed to investigate and report on the question of the ordinance. This suggestion was approved, and Councilmen Grider, Mathuss and Baker were appointed by the president to act as such a committee.

Mr. Nickell, who was in the chair, took the floor, making a speech in which he strenuously urged the striking out of the report the words "office force of the City Engineer." He believed that no discrimination should be made in the City Engineer's favor.

The Finance Committee, through its chairman and members, explained that Mr. Vincent, the assistant in the Engineer's, office who was to be exempt, was a man who could not easily be replaced by an American citizen for the money allowed the place, as his work was of a difficult character, requiring technical knowledge and special skill for its performance.

o'clock, took up the final report of the commission appointed to revise the street names of the city, which had been filed during the noon recess of the Council. In presenting its report the commission introduced the document with the following paragraphs:

"The commission appointed in December, 1896, by the Mayor, to revise (so far as possible) and systematize the street names of the city, begs to report as follows:

"The serious and discreditable confusion which existed in the names of streets had become intolerable. There were nearly three hundred duplicate streets names in the city. For instance, three A streets, two First streets and so on. A great many continuous streets had different names in different parts, some changing at almost every block. Study of the map of this city reveals a confusion almost incredible in a civilized community. This muddle arises from the fact that there has never been heretofore any systematic consideration of the city as a whole. Street-naming has been done by pathwork. The owners of new subdivisions have applied whatever names they chose, apparently careless whether those names were already in use in other parts of the city. "One of the acts of this commission has been to have framed and introduced in the Legislature in Sacramento a bill providing that hereafter no subdivision shall be recorded until the names of its streets and their connections with existent streets shall have been approved by the proper municipal authorities. This commission has recognized that every change of street name creates confusion and has made no changes wartonly. But such changes as have to be made can be made more cheaply now than ever in the future. After being in session is exected in eliminating all duplicate map. It has also given a single name to such streets as before had from two to five names.

"In applying new names to streets which had to be rechristehed, the commission has aimed to perpetuate historic personal names that were prominent in the first California days, or since the American occupation. It has spemed fitting that discoverers, founders, missionaries, American pioneers and oid settlers of fame in the history of the State should be thus commemorated. As a vast majority of the city streets bear English names (borrowed from the birthplace or from the family names of present residents) and as the old names had been almost entirely obliterated, the commission has made use of many Spanish titles, taking care that they shall be appropriate, musical, not too long and not easily mispronounced. We herewith present the latest corrected map of Los Angeles, upon which the suggested changes are indicated in red ink; also an ordinance alphabetically arranged, making those changes; and we respectfully recommend the passage of said ordinance."

The foregoing was signed by Gen. Forman, D. H. Burks, J. M. Guinn, W. J. Washburn, Fred Eaton and Charles F. Lummis.

D. H. Burks, representing the Maxwell Directory people, addressed the Council, saying that the speedy adopof this ordinance would enable his company to include in its forthcoming directory all the changes contained in the ordinance. Blanchard suggested that the matter be referred to a committee, but made no motion to that effect. Councilman Blanchard suggested that the matter be referred to a committee, but made no motion to that effect. Councilman Toll moved that when the Council adjourned it adjourn until this (Tuesday) afternoon, when the ordinance might be considered. The motion prevailed.

FIRE HYDRANTS AGAIN.

In his report to the Council, the City Attorney discussed the perennial question of leaking fire hydrants.

made in the City Engineer's favor.

The Finance Committee, through its chairman and members, explained that Mr. Vincent, the assistant in the Engineer's office who was to be exempt, was a man who could not easily be replaced by an American citizen for the money allowed the place, as his work was of a difficult character, requiring technical knowledge and special skill for its performance.

Councilman Nickell also objected to the committee's recommendation that employés be "on the County Register." The report was finally amended to read "on the printed Great Register of the county," and as thus amended was adopted.

MINOR MOTIONS MADE.

Among the minor motions made by the Councilmen during the day were the following:

By Councilman Blanchard, that the Water Company to repair them, if they, are out of repair by reason of the fact that they are being used by the Street Sprinkling Contractor, said contractor should be at once compelled to repair them and to cease the further use of said hydrants. If the hydrants referred to are what is known as sprinkling hydrants, they should be repaired by the city."

Some discussion of a desultory character was provoked by this report, but nothing of a definite nature was done, beyond referring the report to the Finance Committee.

beyond referring the report to the Finance Committee.

The City Attorney reported on other matters referred to him as follows:

"In the matter of the demand of S. C. Gordon for $15. referred to me, I beg leave to report that the ordinance provides that a member of the board is entitled to $3 for each regular meeting, and if the meetings stated in this demand were regular meetings of said board it is a proper demand." Received.

board it is a proper demand." Received.
"In the matter of petition of R. W. Bailey, the franchise referred to has already been drawn and presented to you." Filed.
"You have referred to me a motion to the effect that a clause be added to bonds of contractors for street improvements, making bondsmen responsible for the payment of all labor on the work for which they are bondsmen. This cannot be done under the law as it now exists, for the reason that you cannot add to the contract or bond made under the general street law, any additional burden not provided by the statute itself. I understand that there is a bill before the Legislature to so amend the law as to remedy this matter." Filed.

GARBAGE CONTRACTOR'S SNAP.

GARBAGE CONTRACTOR'S SNAP. GARBAGE CONTRACTOR'S SNAP.

As reported in The Times of Sunday, the Finance Committee on Saturday last tackled the garbage contractor's snap, whereby he receives $500 for collecting garbage in the annexed districts of the city, as against $1041 for the rest of the municipality. The committee's report to the Council yesterday contained the following in reference to the matter:

"Your committee feels compelled to call the attention of your honorable body to the demands of J. B. Franklin for collecting and cremating garbage body to the demands of J. B. Franklin for collecting and cremating garbage under existing contracts. We have approved with great reluctance the demand of said J. B. Franklin for January services as follows: To collecting and cremating garbage, $1041.66; to collecting and cremating garbage in annexed districts, $500.

"We would respectfully call your attention to the injustice done the taxpaying residents living within the old limits of the city by using of their funds in paying for the collection of garbage in annexed districts an amount of money one-half as large as the sum garbage in annexed districts an amount of money one-half as large as the sum paid for similar service within the old limits of the city."

The Councilmen were unanimous in their belief that the case in its operation worked an injustice to certain residents of the city. Councilman Nickell moved the City Clerk be directed to retain the January demand of the garbage contractor for work done in the annexed districts, until further action might be taken in the matter, and the motion was adopted.

The Finance Committee's report contained the following recommendations in addition to those already referred to:

"In the matter of petition from the Good Samaritan Mission et al., your committee are credibly informed that other communications of a similar nature will come before your honorable body at this meeting, and, believing that better results will be attained by a general discussion of this very important matter, your committee deem it advisable to omit making a formal report at this time." Adopted.

WATER COMPANIES ON DECK. The Clerk reported the receipt of statements from the Los Angeles City Water Company and the Highland Water Company showing the receipts nd expenditures of each concern durand expenditures of each concern during the year 1896.

The Highland Water Company swore that during the year it had received $4929.38, and expended $9178.20, of which latter sum $3671.63 had been expended for construction, $4860 for interest on bonds, and $646.57 for "expenses."

The Los Angeles City Water Company accompanied its bulky book of records with a communication to the Council exactly similar, word for word, to other communications, filed in preceding years by the water company.

pany accompanied its bulky book of records with a communication to the Council exactly similar, word for word, to other communications, filed in preceding years by the water company. This is the historic communication whose wording is so satisfactory that the company has not cared to change its form with the passage of years:

"To the Honorable Council of the city of Los Angeles. The undersigned, the Los Angeles City Water Company, hereby submits to your honorable body a detailed statement showing the name of each water-rate payer, his or her place of residence, and the amount paid for water by each of said water-rate payers during the year preceding the date of this statement, and also showing all revenue derived from all sources and an itemized statement of expenditures for supplying water during the time intervening since the last statement made by the undersigned to your honorable body.

"In making this statement the undersigned is not to be held or deemed in any manner as waiving its rights under its contract or agreement with the city of Los Angeles in relation to furnishing the inhabitants of the city with water, and it does now, as it has ever hereofore, assert and claim that the water rates to be charged and collected for the supplying of water are fixed by said contract, and are not subject to revision or change by your honorable body. But the undersigned is now, and ever has been, ready and willing at all times to furnish your honorable body with any information that may be necessary or reasonable for a full understanding of the business of this company; and this statement is rendered for the purpose of placing before your honorable body information as to the facts of the business of this company that the undersigned deem reasonable that the city should know in view of the rights of the city under said contract. And the undersigned protests against any use being made of this report as a basis upon which to fix the rates that shall be charged and collected for water furnished to the inhabitants of the

CITY ENGINEER'S REPORT. The City Engineer reported ordi-nances of intention to establish the grade of Hunter street, Garey street, Alvarado street and Tenth street, which were adopted. On other matters referred to him the engineer recommended as follows:

Peru street be abandoned; that the second ordinance of intention to establish the grade of Wright street be adopted; that the grade of Hope stree between Temple and Court streets be changed; that a sewer be constructed on Twelfth street between San Pedrand Tenmessee streets. In regard to Fourteenth street between Central avenue and Stanford avenue, he reported that there is about 400 feet of good cement curb and walk on the street and that the carrying out of instruction previously given would necessitate the relaying of this curb and walk as previously given would necessitate the relaying of this curb and walk, and asked for further instructions regard-ing the work. The latter matter was referred to the Board of Public Works

THE RIGHTS OF MAN.

THE WIFE MUST SUPPORT THE PENNILESS HUSBAND.

Judge M. T. Allen of Department Six Gives an Opinion to That Effect-S. W. Livingston Sues His Better Half for Maintenance.

Judge M. T. Allen rendered a judg ment for the plaintiff in the case brought by S. W. Livingston against his wife. The story of the poor old man's troubles is best told by the opinion, which is here given in substance.

best told by the opinion, which is here given in substance.

Livingston, who is now 83 years of age, and Mrs. Livingston who is now in her eightleth year intermarried in 1881, at Minneapolis, and subsequently removed to this State, where they have resided for several years past. Shortly before coming West, Livingston sold his business, receiving therefore $\frac{1}{1500}$ the defendant also selling her home.

The property so sold was owned by each as separate estate. The separate property of the plaintiff seems to have been consumed by traveling expenses and by the ordinary course of living. Of the amount realized by defendant from the sale of her property, there appears to remain only $400 in cash, a house and lot in Pasadena, worth about $3500, and about $2000 invested in mortages and other interest-bearing securities.

The plaintiff has now no separate property, there is no community property, and the only property owned by either, at present, is the separate property of the defendant, above enumerated.

appears from the testimony that ever since their intermarriage, until within the past year, the plaintiff and defendant lived happily together, and not until the daughter of the defendant, by a former marriage, came into ant, by a former marriage, came into the family, was there any conflict between the parties. The defendant appears to be under the control of this daughter, between whom and the plaintiff there seems to exist mutual hatred and distrust. Shortly after the advent of this daughter into the family, the defendant was induced to take steps toward having an induced to take steps toward having an induced in an asylum. Upon an examination before the Judge in this department, he was discharged. Afterward, the plaintiff brought suit for divorce, which was dismissed.

The court is satisfied that the treat-

The court is satisfied that the treat ment of the plaintiff by the defendan ment of the plaintiff by the defendant and her daughter was such as to render the life of the plaintiff unpleasant in the extreme: that, at one time, when the plaintiff was weak and emaclated from disease, and when, as the testimony of the physician shows, he required careful nursing and treatment, by the defendant's consent, a physician-was sent for, not to minister to his wants, but to examine the defendant with a view of again instituting proceedings looking toward his confinement in an asylum, and this at a time when he was so weak, physically, that he could have injured no one, had he been so disposed, nor does the testimony show any grounds for cally, that he could have injured no one, had he been so disposed, nor does the testimony show any grounds for believing that he was insane.

The testimony further shows that, by salson of eertain advanced notions in relation to the preparation and serving of food, entertained by the daughter, whom defendent permitted to manage the affairs of the household, coupled with a fear upon the part of plaintiff that a conspiracy existed to poison him, the plaintiff did not have the nourishing food which his age and habits of life required; that a neighbor, noting his condition, took the plaintiff into his family and kept him for several months, until he regained his health and strength; that the defendant did not visit him while he was thus away, but, after the lapse of several months, the plaintiff called upon the defendant, who invited him to again return to her home. This the plaintiff did, but, when the hour for retiring came, he was notified by the defendant that he could not occupy the bed and room which the aged couple had occupied for many years as the family sleeping apartment, but he must sleep in another room, the only entrance to which was from a rear porch.

To this the plaintiff objected, and only entrance to which was from a rearporch.

To this the plaintiff objected, and finally occupied the front room of the house as his sleeping apartment. The sequel to this disagreement resulted in another affidavit, made by the defendant's consent, for the arrest of the plaintiff, upon what charge is not shown by the testimony, but upon which a warrant of arrest was issued, although not served. The plaintiff, being advised of this proceeding looking to his arrest, left the house of defendant, and has ever since remained away, except two visits made during the daughter's absence.

has ever since remained away, except two visits made during the daughter's absence.

The court is satisfied from these and many other facts elicited at the trial that a case of desertion is made out. And the question is now presented, whether or not a husband who, without cause or provocation, is driven from his home, and is wholly without the means of support, and is unable, from infirmity, to support himself, can maintain an action against the wife for a reasonable allowance for his maintenance out of her separate property. Were the parties reversed in this case, there certainly could be no question that a wife could maintain such action, nor would it be necessary to allege or prove such desertion for any fixed period.

Sections of our Civil Code declare the mutual duty of support, and the duty and obligation of the wife to the infirm husband without means.

An order was entered directing the defendant to pay the plaintiff $24 on the first Monday of each month until the further order of the court, and awarding him costs and attorhey's fees in the suit.

THE SUPREME COURT. Rules That a Superior Judge Cannot Amend His Judgments.

Two opinions were received yesterday n Los Angeles from the In the case of Olive Byrne, plaintiff and respondent, vs. Abraham Hoag and Lilian D. Hoag, defendants and ap-pellants, tried by Judge Noyes in Riverside, the Supreme Court reversed the decision of the lower court, which gave a judgment to the plaintiff. The facts of the case, as they appear upon the record, are as follows: "In 1893 the plaintiff commenced an action against the defendants to foreclose a mortgage given to secure a promissory note for $2000, dated April 27, 1893, and payable three years from date, with interest at 12 per cent, per annum, pay-able annually. At the time of the com-mencement of the suit, the first install-ment of interest was due, and it was alleged in the complaint that no sum either on principal or interest had been paid. The prayer is for judgment for 32000 and interest, that the usual decree be made for the sale of the mortgaged premises, the application of the proceeds thereof to the satisfaction of the note, and for a deficiency judgment. The answer denied that more than one year's interest was due.

The court rendered a judgment for

The answer denied that more than one year's interest was due.

The court rendered a judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $240, with interest at 7 per cent. per annum, from April 27, 1893, for attorney's fees, costs and decree of sale for the mortgaged premises. This decree was signed and entered November 27, 1893.

August 15, 1895, the plaintiff served a notice on the defendants that he would, as soon as a hearing could be had, move the court for leave to amend the aforesaid judgment, so that it should read in accordance with a form of judgment which stafed that the judgment entered was not in accordance with the decision of the court. If further claimed that the judgment had been inadvertently entered by the clerk, the pressure of business preventing the plaintiff's attorneys from discovering the defect in the judgment until that time. After hearing an argument on the motion the court made an order amending the judgment, providing that when at any time thereafter any part of the principal or interest should become due, an order should be made for the sale of the mortgaged premises not already sold.

The opinion of the Supreme Court

the mortgaged premises not already sold.

The opinion of the Supreme Court was that Judge Noyes had no right to enter a second judgment, and that the signed decree was his last direction to the clerk, and the decision of the case.

To allow a judgment to be changed radically on mere motion a year and a half after it had been entered, for no other reason than that contended for in this case, would be to destroy that certainty and stability which are the main characteristics of final judgment. The judgment appealed from is therefore reversed. The opinion is signed by Justice McFarland, Jutices Temple and Henshaw concurring.

It was a combination of Santa Mon-ica day and Doctors' and Nurses' day, but swimming was hardly good enough between here and Santa Monica to insure a very heavy attendance from that seaside burg, and the time of all the doctors and nurses in town was presumably occupied with cases of in-fluenza and pneumonia, brought on by wet feet and drenched clothing since the heavens opened and the streets be-came rivers.

the heavens opened and the streets became rivers.

The evening was supposed to have been devoted to the Jonathan Club, and an occasional white badge among the sprinkling of guests helped to carry out the delusion. The attendance was much larger than during the day, but the pavilion was not exactly crowded even at that.

After some band music, inspiring enough to, put life into a drowned poodle, the jaudience was favored with a song by Bishop & Co.'s Male Quartette. This was followed by a soprano solo, "Happy Days," charmingly sung by Mrs. Nelle Mortoot, with a violin obligate by Miss Cogswell. Miss Shield gave a pretty contraite solo, "Jamie Dear," and a quartette from the "Bohemian Girl" was sung by Mrs. Morfoot, Miss Cogswell, Mr. Pierce and Mr. Porter.

After more music by Bishop & Co.'s quartette, the ever-popular animatoscope occupied the attention and won the hearty applause of the audience for a few minutes. The same programme was given, and people exclaimed as usual over the files of marching men, the dash and swirl of the Niagara Falls, the police patrol, the departing and arriving tallyhos, and the roaring express train, dashing along at seventy-five miles an hour. Fancy dancing by Prof. Payne's pupils was the next feature on the programme. And now all those Hurled directors are wondering what it means. The Times is sorry it can't enlighten them. The thing is too deep for this everyday, materialistic journal. Meantime, it is evident that there is a deep, dark, bloody struggle going on between the altrustic ego and the egotistical altro of the Hurled. As Shakespeare says:

Then it was that Nabo told what he had done, and a charge of petty larceny was filed against him. He will be sentenced today.

H. B. Rice, who on Saturday night acquired a huge jag and celebrated it by throwing a rock through a window on Alameda street, stood before Justice owens in the Police Court yesterday.

Deputy Constable Mugnemi had arrested him on a charge of malicious mischief, but Rice was so earnest in his pleading that the charge was changed to drunk and he was fined $3.

Justice Owens gave him fifty days for drunkenness and 180 days for vagrancy, and Reardon left, promising that he would not have to serve it. Yesterday morning Officers Lennon and Henderson saw him drunk at the corner of First and Los Angeles streets, and sent him to the City Jail. In the afternoon, Justice Owens, remembering the floater which stood against him, committed him to jail for 230 days.

Thieving Junk Dealer.

James McCoy, the junk dealer who was arrested by Detectives Bradish and Steele for the alleged theft of an anvil and some tools from M. Mc-Greel's grading camp, was arraigned before Justice Owens yesterday on a charge of petty larceny. His trial was set for tomerrow morning.

ECONOMY THE KEYNOTE OF THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The Territory Deeply in Debt-Critielsm of the Yuma County Canal Project.

A NEW OPERAHOUSE NEEDED.

ARIZONA WORKING FOR THE AT-LANTIC AND PACIFIC.

Flying Machine of a Phoenix Man-Pocket Knives Cheap at Fool's Gulch-Struck by a Box Car-A Horrible Find.

PHOENIX, Jan. 29,-[Regular Correspondence.] Although the Legislature has been in session ten days, the Governor's message to that body was not delivered until yesterday, owing to the illness of Gov. Franklin. The keynote of the message was economy. Figures were presented showing the Territory in a decided state of debt, with Territorial bonds outstanding of over $1,250,000, and municipal indebtedness of $120,000. He showed, notwithstanding, a propagative for above the average of the showed of the s prosperity far above the average of that of the country at large for Arizona The Governor strongly commended the administration of the asylum and Territorial Prison as conducted by his appointees. He paid his respects to the previous administration pretty strongly in relation to the Yuma county canal proposed by the State of Arizona Im-provement Company, contending that the Territory had little or nothing to gain from the move; that the water rights to be so attained were of at least doubtful value. The employment of the prisoners, he said, would be given to the exclusion of honest labor, and this he did not indorse. He stated the objection of the Loan Commission, of which he is ex-officio a member, to the payment of the bonds of the defunct Pima county and Yavaipa county railroads, making an able argument from a lawyer's standpoint. The cattle, mining and agricultural interests he set forth, showing them to be very prosperous. He recommended as a source of revenue a tax on the output of working mines. He called attention to the quarantine by New Mexico against Arizona cattle, and asked remedial legislation. He strongly indorsed the labor done by the county commissioners of immigration of the past two years (without remuneration,) and favored the maintenance of the immigration board. The semi-annual payment of taxes, the employment of the prisoners at Yuma on an extensive ice plant, and action looking to securing Congressional permission to lease the school land of Arizona are among the recommendations apparently met with favor and 2000 copies of the message were ordered printed. gain from the move; that the water rights to be so attained were of at least

That New Operahouse.

The funniest thing in the production of the Grau Opera Company here was in the play of "Paul Jones," when one of the characters, on being aroused from a map exhibits anger and says: "Oh. I had the most beautiful, beautiful dream!" The dream was that they had a new operahouse in Phoenix. Mr. Grau stated to your correspondent that he had been consulted for ideas pertaining to a sure-enough new operahouse here. The plan is for the auditorium on the ground floor, in the rear of stores, with offices in the second story. He says that many good companies now make a jump from El Paso to Los Angeles that would stop here were a first-class theater building to be had. The stage, he says, as has already been suspected here fon five or ten years. Is too small for any good production. The player aforementioned called it a bay window. Mr. Grau says that the best theater in the country is Fisher's Operahouse at San Diego, and says further that many good companies go there who otherwise would not, because of its superiority. Phoenix, he says, could secure many good companies not now available, with a first-class theater.

"THE A. AND P. OF ARIZONA." THAT NEW OPERAHOUSE.

Among the bills before the Legislature is one looking to the securing to Arizona of the home of the reorganized Atlantic and Pacific system. The bill is favorable to railroads, and it is probable that the road mentioned will be reincorporated under the laws of the Territory. This will carry with will be reincorporated under the laws of the Territory. This will carry with it like privileges in all States and Territories covered by its ramifications. In committee of the whole in the House Judge Sterry was granted the privilege of the floor and made a brief statement, of the reasons which moved him to indorse the measure. The Atlantic and Pacific bondholders desired to extend their lines both westerly and southerly, he said, and this measure would permit that being done under one set of officers and by one corporation. In his opinion the surveyed line from Phoenix through to Calabasas, via Tucson, will be constructed, securing connection of the Santa Fé, Prescott and Phoenix line with the Sonora Railroad. The bill will undoubtedly pass, and some day the Atlantic and Pacific of Arizona will become a paraphrase upon another corporation and State. become a paraphrase upon another corporation and State.

GILL TO THE RESCUE.

Edwin S. Gill, years ago editor of the Phoenix Republican, later editor of the Boston Traveler, and still later a correspondent from Mexico, has valiantly come to Arizona's rescue. The Territory will want a new Secretary one of these days, and evidently Mr. Gill has his doubts about these Arizona fellows being able to hold down the job. Therefore, he offers to be Secretary himself. He writes from the East that letters from "friends at home" urge him to accept the place. It is really to kind of Mr. Gill to still call Arizona "home." The fact is, Arizona has men of ability who stay with the Territory without requiring an office to bring them, or keep them here, and a "home rule" man will suit very well for Secretary. If Mr. Gill wants an appointment he should look to Boston.

The machine is thus far only a hazy and beautiful theory. Nobody has ever taken flight on it as yet, except the hopeful Daggs, and he only in his imagination. The proposition is for a cross between a bird and a bicycle. It will have wings and the leg muscles of the rider will furnish the power to run same. The snag against which the inventor will probably run is that the strongest man in earth couldn't so propel half his weight. A spring will be provided that will throw it into the air when a flight is to be made, to avoid contact of the wings with the ground. Mr. Daggs expects to receive an engagement with the San Francisco Call.

Their only desire seemed to be that customers come early and avoid the rush. About this time the burglary of the McNell store at Phoenix was reported here, and it was rightly supposed that the knives offered were those the McNel Company lost. They were arrested and on them were still found a hundred or so of the knives, revolvers and a set of burglar's tools.

TUCSON.

TUCSON, Jan. 29.—[Regular Correspondence.] United States Marshal Meade found an ordinary box car much more dangerous than his closest call at the hands of the most desperate offenders of the law. At Maricopa a night or two ago, while crossing from the Southern Pacific tracks to the Maricopa and Phoenix train, still drowsy from his ride from Tucson, he stepped in front of a train backing toward him. The night being dark, and the rear car without lights, he was struck by the car. Between the impulse to get outside the rails and the momentum given him by the train, he was thrown to the ground just outside the rails, and the murderous wheels rushed past within a few inches of him.

Charles Seibert, son of Assistant Superintendent Seibert of the Southern Pacific division here, had his hand badly smashed between two cars at Yuma. Dr. Goodfellow happened to be on the train and dressed the injuries. In a little adobe room that had not been opened for several days was found the body of Albert Schlup, horribly decomposed and revolting in appearance. In life he had not been very handsome, owing to dissipation, but with death and decomposition to boot, he was a horror to see. He had been drinking heavily and died of a prolonged spree.

Quite a number of pieces of jewelry have been offered for sale at residences by tramps. The jewelry is new, and was offered at ridiculously low prices. The inference is that these are some of the fruits of the recent jewelry store burglary in Los Angeles.

Charles Trebor is in trouble over a $300 bill with an Albuquerque liquor dealer. Trebor lays the blame to a persistent and designing drummer, who, he says, "film-flammed" him, wherefore he, in turn, "film-flammed" the drummer. It is an unsavory piece of business, and Trebor is in jail over it, with more trouble ahead.

About twenty years ago R. J. Rutherford, an expressman, shuffled himself off this scene of action, after considerable trouble, with morphine. It is now declared that Rutherford's "hant" is back at the old stand doing business. Uncanny noises are heard in his house. IRRIGATION DISTRICT TO BE DIS-INCORPORATED.

Sale of Mining Property for a Large Begin-Compromise not Probable.

POMONA, Feb. 1.-[Regular Correspondence.] The Orange Belt Irrigation District is soon to be a thing of the past. Attorney W. A. Bell has the papers ready for proceedings to disncorporate the district, and as soon as one of the directors returns from the East the matter will be taken into the courts. A short time ago the property holders raised a voluntary subscription and paid off all the debts, including the bonded indebtedness, and there seems now to be no reason why the district cannot be dissolved.

BIG MINE SALE.

Bassett & Smith of Pomona have just completed the sale of the Last Chance No. 2, the Southwest and Sunshine group of mines, located in the Coso mining district, Inyo county, Cal., for the sum of $80,000, a first payment of $40,000 cash having been made today (Monday.) The Last Chance No. 2 mine has been a paying property for the past three years, the late owners' shipments to smelter having brought in upward of $132,000. Since the bond was given on the property a rich strike was made, which assures the purchasers dividends in the future. Recent assays of ore from the bottom of the main working shaft gave the returns of 2784 ounces of silver per ton.

Leaving aside the immense tracts set apart by the national government and by the State of New York in the Adirondacks and the Catskills, clubs and private individuals now own nearly a million acres of forest preserves in New York State, while in Maine, especially in the Rangley Lake country, in the Upper White Mountains of New Hampshire, and along the tributaries of the Connecticut and Androscoggin rivers, there are many large preserves. Shares and Money.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The upward movement in the stock market which marked the dealings in the final days of last week met a check today. Some of the factors in this upward movement were the decided ease in the monetary situation at home and abroad, giving expectation of an early substantial revival in legitimate trade through the employment of such capital as falls to seek an outlet in investment in prime securities. The constant absorption of gilt-dedge securities at the high prices prevailing and the limited amounts offered encouraged purchases of the middle-class mortgages with items on properties undergoing reorganisation. The trading element was dispeded to operate for a decline and received effective aid today from the the execution of numerous selling orders for foreign account. The change of front on the part of foreigners and the unfavorable construction placed upon the changes in the arbitration treaty by the Senate, led to the curtaliment of purchassing orders by the leading interests in the market, and, although the market steadled at intervals under covering and a moderate inquiry for the long account, the final prices show losses of a fraction generally. Northern Pacific stocks and bonds continued as the features of the general speculation, and were alternately buoyed and depressed on the various rumors in circulation in regard to the property. The announcement by President J. J. Hill that there were no negotiations in progress with the Northern Pacific for a traffic alliance caused realizations in the shares, under which the common yielded 1½ per cent. and the preferred 1 per cent. These shares, however, were well taken at the lower figures and rallied on intensition that a large foreign interest in the property was negotiating for a large block of the stock. The dealings in the general list were fairly well distributed, low-priced stocks attaining prominence. The pressure against the market was quite marked in the later upon the say purchasing orders receipts was anything but reassuring to the buils. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 421 cars, compared with only 185 last week and 644 cars on the corresponding day of last year. Receipts at Chicago, however, were only 30 cars. The weakness at Liverpool was apparently caused by an increase of 872,000 bushels in stocks there, but why the market should make such a big break for such a reason was somewhat of a mystery to the traders. The scramble ceased suddenly and a slow recovery to 73% @73% took place, helped by a better tone to some of the late news. World's shipments of about five million five hundred thousand bushels were expected, but the figures when finally announced showed a total of only 4,083,000 bushels, of which 2-clif,000 bushels came from this country. The quantity on ocean passage increased 160,000 bushels, instead of decreasing heavily as was expected. Atlantic port clearances since Saturday were unusually liberal at the cquivalent in wheat and flour of 850,000 bushels. The domestic visible supply decreased 1,704,000 bushels, instead of about 750,000 bushels, which was the expected reduction early in the day. This sort of news gradually restored the confidence of traders, and, though there were several small reactions, the general trend was toward a recovery. May finally got back to 74% 474% and closed there.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Wheat holders struck with a feeling of panic when it was found that, notwithstanding the advance here Saturday. Liverpool came ¼d lower this morning. The consequence was that May wheat, which Saturday closed at 75½, was for sale at the opening today at from 74¼ down to 73¾, and some as low as 73¾. Buying orders, even at such a concession in the price, were quite scarce for about an hour, and before the market showed a sufficient degree of strength to stop the continuation of the decline the price got down to 73¾, or within %c of the lowest point it touched last week. The trade in corn was a little heavier than the recent average and, considering the severe drop in wheat, the market may be said to have been remarkably firm.

Provisions were emphatically weak all day. The weak tone of the hog market added to the semi-panicky opening in wheat.

Closing. SUMMARY. A Curious Wooden Watch.

A Curious Wooden Watch.

[San Francisco Chronicle:] The most curious timekeeper, perhaps, that has ever been made in this country was the work of one Victor Doriot, who lived at Bristol, Tenm., about twenty years ago. This oddity was nothing more or less than a wooden watch. The case was made of brier root, and the inside works, all except three of the main wheels and the springs, which were of metal, were made from a piece of old boxwood rule. The face, which was polished until it looked like a slab of finest ivory, was made from the shoulder-blade of an old cow that had been killed by the cars. "Doriot's queer watch," as it was called, was an openfaced affair, with a glass crystal, and was pronounced a fine piece of work by all the watchmakers in East Tennessee. Peculiar Bet.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] A bet was recently made in Paris that an expert could not cut up 2000 sandwiches within twenty-four hours, the amonut of the wager, f.2000, to go to the expert, if successful, and the sandwiches to be distributed among the hospitals of Paris. The person selected was a woman employed in one of the cafés. She completed the task in nineteen hours and forty minutes, cutting up twenty-two hams for the purpose.

[Chicago Record:] "Imitation coffee is made now, I notice." "Is that so? Imitation good coffee or imitation bad coffee?"

of the Supreme Court—Regular Meeting of the Council—Reports from City Officials—Board of Trade Directors Meet.

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—[Regular Correspondence.] The regular meeting of the City Council was held this afternoon. President Hartwell and Trustees Reynolds, Hamilton and Patton were present. The first matter considered by the Council was the opening of bids for sidewalks, grading, curbing and gutters on Locust street, between Fair Oaks and Raymond. Bids had been submitted by James H. Dovey, John Showalter, E. H. Smith, Owen Kinsman, D. Ward, A. B. Hagan, M. A. Hughes and Charles Copelin. The lowest bid was that of Mr. Copelin and the contract was accordingly awarded to him. His figures were as follows: Cement sidewalk, 9 cents per square foot; grading, 12 cents per lineal foot; cobblestone gutter, 12 cents; cement curb, 24 cents.

Joseph Gantzer petitioned the Council to allow him to erect a sign at No. 33 South Fair Oaks avenue. The request was granted.

Thomas Nelmes appeared before the Council and made complaint of the newy flow of storm water down Grand avenue, near Palmetto drive. He explained that the wooden flume had been completely washed away. The matter was referred to the Street Superintendent.

completely washed away. The matter was teferred to the Street Superintendent.

A petition was presented from C. H. Rhodes, asking a rebate of city taxes from 1891 to 1897, amounting to $25, upon lands in blocks 3, 4, 5 and 6 and lots 32, 23, 24 and 25. Merrill & Leighton's subdivision. San Paqual tract. The request was based upon the assertion that the property in question is not within the city limits. The City Clerk stated that the assessment map shows the property as within the city limits, but as a survey may be necessary to determine the question, the petition was referred to the City Clerk and the City Engineer.

Marshal Lacey's report of arrests made during January showed that fifteen petity offenders were taken into custody, a $5 inc being imposed in each case. Twelve of the arrests made were for riding with bloycles on the sidewalks.

The Council passed a resolution of intention to grade, gutter and curb Marengo avenue from Illinois street to the morth city limits.

The reports of the Tax Collector for December and January were submitted and approved. They showed a balance due was $4455.51.

On metion of Trustee Patton the City Marshal was authorized to enlarge his present quarters by taking in a part of the hallway so as to form a private room.

JUDGMENT AGAINST THE CITY.

JUDGMENT AGAINST THE CITY.

After the adjournment of the Council there was an informal discussion of the judgment rendered against the city last Saturday by the Supreme Court in the suit of the Perine Contracting and Paving Company. The amount involved is $3000, with interest at 7 per cent for three years and a half, together with costs—in all probably about $3900.

In July, 1893, the plaintiff company, a San Francisco concern, put in bids for paving certain portions of Fair Oaks and Raymond avenues. The bids were accepted and the company deposited two certified checks of $1500 each as a guarantee. Shortly afterward the company became satisfied that the proceedings of the City Council had been irregular and that in consequence the raving contract was invalid. The company accordingly notified the city and refused to do the paving and requested the return of the two certified checks. Upon the advice of City Attorney Arthur, who said that the deposit had been forfeited, the request was refused. Naturally enough, the company did not relish the idea of losing $3000, and suit was instituted to recover the money. When the case was tried in the Superior Gourt it resulted in a judgment against the city. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, which on Saturday affirmed the decision of the trial court.

The City Attorney reminded the Truss—

The City Attorney reminded the Trustees, when the matter was discussed today, that the city would be compelled to may conly? The cent. Interest on the money, while it would have been obliged to may 8 per cent, if the money had been borrowed from the banks. The $3000 was used by the city for paying running expenses, as though it had been a part of the general fund. Mr. Arthur was of the opinion that the entire/costs of suit would not exceed $150, altibough he said this was merely a rough estimate.

although he said this was merely a rough estimate.

Is the city is already confronted with the prospect of an empty treasury, it is not apparent how this judgment will be paid. The $3000 is no longer on hand, having been treated and expended as a part of the general fund.

NEW INSURANCE RATES.

There is unusual interest in insurance matters in this city today on account of the notices that have been received by the local agents from the Los Angeles and San Francisco offices to the effect that from and after this date the rate of insurance shall be increased to 25 per cent. under the old rate that was in effect a couple of years ago. This will be double and in some instances treble the rate that has been charged the past year during the fight between the various companies. Local agents will have no alternative. They will be forced into the combine or suffer the penalty of having their companies taken away from them. They have been so notified and consequently will be obliged to do business on the higher rate if they desire to hold the agencies of the companies that they have been representing in the past.

In order to expedite the sewer proceedings, this proposition was accepted.

CONCERNING WATER RATES. The decision of Judge E. S. Torrance in the case of Ward vs. San Diego Land and Town Company, has just been filed. This decision has been referred to before in this correspondence. But the full text of the opinion has not been made public before. It is of importance to Californians because it is directly opposite to the opinion of Judge Ross of the United States Court concerning the right of a water company to make contracts with consumers and the necessity of such companies to abide by rates for water in force until a new rate is made by a board of Supervisors. The case involved the raising of the water rate by the San Diego Land and Town Company from $3.50 per acre per annum to $7 annually in the face of the fact that the company had sold land to ranchers at the high price of about $300 per acre, and expressly contracted with these ranchers that the acreage irrigation rate should be $3.50 yearly. In January, 1896, the company demanded a $7 rate and shut the water off when the ranchers refused to comply with the new rate. Judge Ross ordered the water turned on and held substantially that a water company could not make contracts with consumers as the Land and Town Company had done, and that pending an ultimate settlement of the case consumers should pay the $7 rate. A second case was brought before Judge Torrance involving practically the same questions that came before Judge Ross and eliciting the opposite opinion referred to. In this opinion Judge Torrance involving practically the same questions that came before Judge Ross and eliciting the opposite opinion referred to. In this opinion Judge Torrance asys: "A careful reading of the statute (Act of 1885.) will certainly produce, in a candid mind, the conviction that it was the intent of the law that there should be some permanency at the rates was the leaving which rates once established ghould continue to be collected. The cook was supposed to get up at an early hour and to call the other men. This morning, the call was not heard by the miners, and one of them went out to ascertain the cause of delay. He found the Chinaman's tent down, and on looking further, saw that a large rock had rolled down, from the mountainside, had struck the tent, and then swept on down to the creek bed. There was no movement from beneath the tent, and the canvas was removed, revealing the lifeless body of the Chinaman. He had been crushed by the falling boulder, and had been killed while asleep. The rock that had caused his death was estimated to weigh fully two tons. It had been loosened by the rain. The Chinaman, called Charley, was well known among the camps of this vicinity. An undertaker was sent out this morning to bring in the remains, and the inquest was held this afternoon.

Three inches of rain fell in Santa Barbara last night. This brings the total to over fourteen inches, and as it is still falling there is prospect for the season's fall going above the average of eighteen inches. The streams are badly swollen, and it is the heaviest storm of the winter. The rain delayed the noon train a few minutes, but at last reports the track was clear. To interpret the statute to mean that a water corporation could arbitrarily increase its water rates, after they had once been established by it, would furnish an opportunity for the practice of monopoly for at least a limited period of time. For it must be remembered that the statute gives the water consumer no right, at any time, to appeal to the Board of Supervisors for redress. Neither can the water company make such appeal, in the first instance, although after the rates have been once established by the board, the company may petition the board to have them reëstablished; a right which is not given the user of water. Before the water consumer can obtain any relief from the Board of Supervisors, against unreasonable rates, he must induce at least twenty-five resident taxpayers of the county to petition the Board of Supervisors, against unreasonable rates, he must induce at least twenty-five resident taxpayers of the county to petition the Board of Supervisors, and, after such petition has been filed, must wait a considerable period of time before any final action of the board can be had thereon. It is fair to presume that a water company having, at first, the right to fix its own water rates, will establish such rates at remunerative prices to itself, and when such rates are accepted and paid by the water consumers, it is certainly doing the company no injustice to hold it to the company no In regard to the appointment of collector for the sub-port of Santa Barbara, it is stated that the position comes now under the civil service regulations, and the present Denocratic Incumbent, Mr. del Valle, is likely to hold the position indefinitely, in spite of the coming change in the national administration. The abouintment is made through the Collector of Customs at Los Angeles, upon the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

He will be taken in custody at Port Los Ángeles this morning and will be brought back to answer to the charge of desertion and for obtaining money under false pretenses. Green came from the East a few months ago, and not long ago entered Uncle Sam's employ. Green had many friends about the city, some of whom in uniform but always in a fine suit of clothes, coat of glove-fitting variety and trousers freshly creased. He had a fine way about him and borrowed money from his friends, his debts remaining unliquidated. Ever since he joined the army he has posed as a married man, and was permitted to sleep away from the barracks. He had rooms at No. $36 Columbia street, which he occupied with a companion of the gentler sex. The landiady regarded the couple as man and wife and so did the grocers and others who have bills against Green. It is said that Green has deserted his alleged wife as well as the army.

They Make Huntington's Wharf Creak Dismaily. Harbor Commissioners Morgan and Morison visited Santa Monica and saw Morison visited Santa Monica and saw some rough water yesterday. They went on the Southern Pacific on the regular morning train, but rode in a private car attached thereto. They were accompanied by Division Super-intendent J. A. Muir. On the arrival of the train at Port Los Angeles the private car was detached, and the train on its return came without the private car. A few minutes later a special train, consisting of a locomotive and passenger coach arrived at the wharf. passenger coach arrived at the wharf, and on its return included the private car also. The special train did not stop at Santa Monica on the return stop at Santa Monica on the return trip.

The commissioners saw a rough, heavy sea. The tide was high, but had fallen about three feet since its highest stage early in the morning. As there was no shipping of consequence about the wharf, there was scarcely a fair chance to see what such a sea might do. The Southern Pacific tug remained a good distance from the wharf, and the steamer Alcazar, loaded with ties, was moored several feet away from it. Although the steamer had remained there since Sunday nothing was done at discharging it, but the railroad people excused this by saying it was on account of the rain that the boat was not discharged.

As to the height of the swells rolling, there was poor opportunity for measurements.

As to the height of the swells rolling, there was poor opportunity for measurement. The Alcazar rolled and pitched in such a way as to make any estimates based on its elevation and depression unreliable. It was inconvenient to lean over and see how high it came on the piling. But whatever the height of the swells may have been, the commissioners who were present saw them and can judge for themselves.

There being high water the waves had a greater purchase on the piling

There being high water the waves had a greater purchase on the piling as they dashed against it, which fact was evidenced by its creaking and groaning.

The swells rolled in from the southwest, but the wind blew from the opposite direction, coming from the shore. The tendency of the wind was, for that reason, to lessen the force of the swells rather than increase it. The wind blew up small chops on the surface and made the water look ugly rather than be ugly. The water was of a muddy hue for nearly a mile from shore, but this was perhaps on account of the rain washing dirt into the ocean. Some of the wagon road running beside the Southern Pacific track near the approach of the long wharf was washed away by the force of the waves at high water in the morning.

Commissioner Morgan and a Southern Pacific official also visited San Pedro to hear what the wild waves were saying in that harbor, but learned nothing of any especial interest to Mr. Huntington.

MILEAGE TICKETS. General Passenger Agent Ford of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh is out in a letter in which he states his is out in a letter in which he states his position as to the 5000-mile interchangeable ticket. In it Mr. Ford says that the 5000-mile ticket of the Central Passenger Committee-has been attacked from almost every quarter. Mr. Ford quotes the arguments advanced by several prominent members of the Commercial Traveler's Association and Travelers' Protective National Association at the conference of repreof the Commercial Traveler's Sosociation and Traveler's Protective National Association at the conference of representatives of the Central Passenger Committee April 23, 1896, which are favorable to the adoption of such a ticket. He then goes on to say that the expression made by a prominent citizen of the country who represents "that intelligent, industrious class of people known as commercial travelers" affords the main reason why the general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania and Vandalia lines labored so diligently for the adoption of the 5000-mile interchangeable mileage ticket. Mr. Ford also says that he feels certain that the objections to confining the sale of the tickets to the commissioners' office at Chicago can be overcome, and that arrangements will unseen the confining the terms of the commits of the commissioners' office at Chicago can be overcome. sioners office at Chicago can be over-come, and that arrangements will un-doubtedly be made to place them on sale at prominent points in the terri-tory as soon as the demand will jus-tify it.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

"Let No Guilty Man Escape." [To the Editor of The Times:] "Con ing events cast their shadows before."
The fact that Jim Budd was elected Governor of California, and the Legis lative attaché scandal at Sacramento, indicate sufficiently a condition of the political atmosphere that is antagon-istic to Republicanism and not in harindicate sufficiently a condition of the political atmosphere that is antagonistic to Republicanism and not in harmony with respectable Democracy. But it is intensely Populistic.

As The Times is most commendably on record against the ruinous tendencies and effects of Populism and whatever contributes to its growth. I desire to call attention through its widely-dispersed columns to the above-mentioned unfortunate incidents as having their origin in an active, energetic and assertive element of membership for revenue, in the Republican party.

The election of Jeems Budd should have sufficed to work the will of such degeneracy and depravity from Abraham Lincoln Republicanism, for all time to come. But when water is again poured on the wheels of the Populist poured on the wheels of the Populist poured on the wheels of the Populist orank and file of the party at Sacramento, it is high time that the true. Ioyal and patriotic rank and file of the party assert itself in repudiating an act unequaled by anymodern legislative body in mendacity, except that of the bogus House of Representatives at Topeka, Kan., during the weak, wicked and wasting administrations whenever the Populists got into power, the remedies they furnished for the Populist control, Kansas securities were at a premium, but use sequently they went begging for purchasers. Had to tramp like the numerous protegés of that party, an institution they have greatly increased, while they have decreased the population of the State since 1850 more than one hundred thousand.

After the signal victory in the election of William McKinley, and the tri-closed to Republican and brother of William McKinley, and the tri-closed to Republican mand had before a party and brother of Mrs. I. L. Spencer, Misson of William McKinley, and the tri-closed to Republican and brother of Mrs. I. L. Spencer, Misson of William McKinley, and the tri-closed to Republican and partotic party and party a State since 1890 more than one hundred thousand.

After the signal victory in the election of William McKinley, and the triumph of good common business sense in California at the late election, it was to be expected that henceforth every sensible Republican would be on his good behavior. But, like children often before company, right on the threshold of the legislative session, one of the most dishonest and stupid bad breaks was made that the most unregenerate depravity could conceive of.

Every newspaper, every citizen and especially every Republican in the State should encourage and expect a complete investigation. The intent, purpose and effort of those engaged in it should be, "Let no guilty man escape."

BOYLE HEIGHTS (No. 330 South State street.) Feb. 1, 1897.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I see by the morning paper that I was about to lose my life on account: of my stubbornness. I was not aware that I was stubborn in this case, but I will say for the benefit of Dr. Hagan and other employes that look ma to the station, done everything in the world they could to make me comfortable.

The doctor was on hand in short order after arriving at the Receiving Hospital, sewed up the cut in my lip, dressed my head and then wanted to examine my body. I did not think it necessary, as I felt no injury except a bruise on one leg. After doing all they could they had me sent home. Dr./Morrison called in Tuesday night and has made me comfortable; am getting along well.
